19 May 2011	6	To safeguard the bus stops on Winthorpe Street, Mansfield	The County Council has no immediate powers to restrict the use of the street, and any legal options are lengthy, costly and likely to generate objections from bus users. Enforcing the removal of buses from any street sets a precedent for other roads where not all residents support the operation of buses. If buses are rerouted away from Winthorpe Street, there is no certainty that an alternative will give as good coverage of the area, which could lead to calls for the County Council to fund a replacement for the affected passengers.	30 June 2011 Transport & Highways
